

Omega Watch

The daring astronauts of Apollo 11 who first landed on the moon back in 1969, this understated timepiece is fitted with a flexible NATO strap and sports a unique laser-carved dial treated in black PVD. The bezel is equally intriguing with its matte black ceramic and 18K Omega Sedna gold ring combination. But nothing beats the engraving on the case-back that reads: "The first watch worn on the moon." There's also a unique product number out of a limited run of only 1969 pieces.
